2 Women Hurt In One of Six City Accidents

1 Hospitalized, Other Released; No Mishaps Listed in County Area

Two Marion women were injured in one of six traffic accidents investigated yesterday by city police. The state highway patrol and Marion County sheriff's office reported no accidents on county highways.

Hurt in a collision at Oak and Owens Sts. at 12:51 p.m. were Mrs. Monroe Sheppard of 554 Thompson St. and Mrs. Norma DeVore of 554 Thompson St.

Mrs. Sheppard, driver of one of the cars, was most seriously hurt with possible internal injuries. She was taken to City Hospital and is reported in "good" condition today.

Mrs. DeVore, a passenger in Mrs. Sheppard's car, was less seriously injured and was treated and released at the hospital for a head injury.

The collision occurred when Mrs. Sheppard's car southbound on Oak St. and a city-owned Jeep westbound in an alley collided. The Jeep was driven by Lawrence D. Hopkins, 38, of 468 Park St. Police reported both cars were damaged. No other details of the accident were available.

An unusual type of accident occurred at 1:24 p.m. yesterday at the rear of 180 E. Mill St. when a Merchants Transfer and Storage truck was pinned between two railroad cars. Police said the truck was parked across a railroad siding and a New York Central yard engine operated by Engineer Howard Winnad pushed a string of cars down the siding pinning the truck between them and another parked railroad car. There was only minor damage to the truck and none to the railroad cars, police said.

Remaining five accidents were all of the fender-bender variety. Cars driven by Donald Meddles, 20, of 320 Windsor St. and James William Noe, 39, of 177 Olney Ave. were involved in an accident at N. Main and Center Sts. at 11:59 p.m. yesterday.

Cars driven by Hilda Jane Gibbs of near Marion and Carlos D. Dennis, 18, of 911 Woodrow Ave. collided at W. Center and Prospect Sts. at 4:28 p.m.

A collision in the 300 block on N. Main St. at 3:34 p.m. involved cars driven by Thelma E. Campbell of near Morral and Grant U. James, 63, of Harpster.

At 1:24 p.m. cars driven by James M. Pfeiffer, 18, of near Marion and Richard A. Thatcher, 20, of 263 Hane Ave. collided at W. Pleasant St. and a north-south alley between S. Prospect and S Main Sts.

Fairfield Co. Representatives Attend Sales Meeting

ANNUAL SALES meeting of the Fairfield Engineering Co.'s contract division opened here yesterday and continued today.

Attending are 40 representatives from the major industrial cities in the country. Meetings are being held at the Fairfield offices on Barnhart St. Luncheon meetings and a dinner last night at which this group of representatives is pictured, were held at Hotel Harding.

Fairfield manufactures a complete line of elevating and conveying machinery for the handling of bulk materials. Installations involve combinations of such units as bucket elevators, belt conveyors, skip hoists and silos.

The company specializes in a complete, integrated service which covers the design, manufacture and field erection of material handling systems. This service is marketed among different types of manufacturing concerns, and includes modernization of existing systems as well as the design and construction of installations for new plant construction.

A few of the materials being handled are phosphate chemicals, sulphur, cotton seed, coffee, fertilizer, sand and limestone.

In addition to the contract division, Fairfield operates a standard products division which designs, manufactures and markets a complete line of construction conveyors, feed mixers, hammermills, bulk bins and coal yard conveyors. These are marketed through three channels of distribution not represented in the current sales meeting.

Wayne H. Kuhn, contract division sales manager, is in charge of the meeting.

out that if an incompetent councilman were elected he would be in office four years instead of two.

To reconcile the two views, a proposal was made to have at-large councilmen serve four-year terms and ward representatives two-year terms.

Because of the importance of the matter Chairman Walter D. Moore postponed action to give the members time to study local public opinion and the experience of other cities using manager-council government.

Size of Council

A discussion on the section covering the size of council was also held, but final action was put off a week to allow Henry Mickley, chairman of the drafting committee, time to redraft the section to incorporate state statute provisions covering increasing the size of a city council.

A brief discussion centered around the section covering the filling of vacant council seats. The commission decided to carry over the discussion to its next Monday night meeting.

Sections Approved

The 10 sections given tentative approval Monday night deal with setting up the form of government and a city council. They:

1. Provide for a council-manager form of government.

2. Set up qualifications for council members, requiring that each member be a qualified elector of the city, have lived here three years, not hold any other political office or employment except notary public or member of state militia and shall not be interested in any contract with the city. It is further provided that ward representatives be residents of their respective wards at the time of their nomination, election and time in office. Members of council who fail to meet the qualifications forfeit their office, creating a vacant council seat.

3. Set up the officers of council as mayor (to be the councilman-at-large who receives the highest number of votes in the regular election), chairman pro tempore (the councilman-at-large who received the second highest number of votes)and clerk (a non-council member elected by the council). The section also provides for the election by council of a mayor in the case of a tie and the removal of the clerk by majority vote of council.

4. Define the duties of council officers: mayor, head of council and titular head of the city; chairman pro tempore, perform the mayor's duties in his absence; clerk, keep council records and perform other duties as prescribed by council.

5. Set up council salaries as the same in effect at the time the charter becomes effective with the mayor receiving an additional $300. Salaries of elected or appointed officials are not to be changed during the current term, changes being permitted for the next term not less than 90 days before it begins.

6. Give council legislative powers only.

7. Restrict council from diminishing powers of departments or offices under the charter but allow it to increase same and give it complete power over departments or offices not covered in the charter.

8. Prohibit council or its individual members from interfering with the governing of officers and employes under the responsibility of the city manager.

9. Allow council to appoint advisory boards to assist it, the city manager or other civic officials in their work, these boards to have the power to subpoena witnesses, administer oaths and compel the production of evidence.

10. Set the second and fourth Mondays of each month as regular meeting nights, provide for the calling of organizational and special meetings and impose attendance requirements on council members. Councilmen are to attend all meetings unless excused by vote of two-thirds of the council. Members missing three consecutive regular meetings without being excused or missing six regular meetings in any calendar year, even though excused, forfeit their offices, creating vacancies on council.

The three sections given tentative approval at an earlier meeting deal th mainly with the powers of the city.

Of the 10 proposals approved last night five were adopted after being amended, two underwent only minor changes to obtain grammatical correctness or clarity and three were approved as read.

Most of the provisions were adopted from the charters of cities using the manager-council system. However, the powers granted to advisory boards appointed by council were a new innovation.

At its next Monday night meeting the commission will resume discussion on the three sections discussed but not acted upon at its last meeting and will take up sections dealing with the qualifications, requirements, powers and duties of the city manager, the referendum and recall.

The tentative draft of the charter is subject to revision before becoming final.

Commissioners Explain Action in Elevator Case

Marion County commissioners, in a letter sent Monday to Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith, explained why they feel it will be impossible for them to comply with his order to install an elevator in the Courthouse.

After reviewing some of the facts about the necessity for improvements in rooms and facilities of the Courthouse, including the possibility of a fourth floor, commissioners stated in the letter that they feel "when the necessary money is available that these improvements are more important for the proper efficient performance of the functions of the Court than the installation of an elevator. We also believe the mandate of the people who are the taxpayers of Marion County should be considered. The vote as the records show were as follows: For, 2,187; against, 8,451. We believe this alone should be final in disposing of this case.

"However, we as a Board of County Commissioners also believe if there were any money available to improve county property, the first consideration should be a hospital ward at the Marion County Home because that is an emergency which involves human life and human life is our responsibility and should have priority over any material matters such as an elevator in the Courthouse."

The matter of the elevator for the Courthouse came to the attention of Common Pleas Court in May after a committee of the Marion County Bar Association requested the Court to review Courthouse facilities.

Following this hearing Judge Smith ordered that commissioners install an elevator by March 1, 1954, and submit a report to him by Jan. 15, 1954.

Commissioners appealed the judge's order, and the Third District Court of Appeals has taken the case under advisement after hearing arguments on it in December.

School Pupils Receive Cards For Polio Fund

Distribution of cards for contributions to the 1954 March of Dimes was made in the public and parochial schools today. The children are asked to make their contributions in time to return the cards to school next Friday.

Distribution of cards will be made in the county schools Jan. 19 and return them to the respective rooms by Jan. 24.

Distribution of the containers throughout the county was made again this year by members of the various CIO Unions. While an effort has been made to contact all places of business in the city and county, some may have been overlooked, John House, chairman, pointed out. Any business place not having a container is asked to call 3-8019, 2-1191, or 2-5883. Assisting in the distribution were Sheriff Glenn Obenour and members of his staff.

Indiana Plane Crash Kills 3 Columbus Men

KNIGHTSTOWN, Ind. (AP)—Three men from Columbus, Ohio, were killed early today when their four-place Stinson plane crashed on a farm a mile and a half northeast of Knightstown.

They were: Walter M. Clark, 35, Joseph W. Dobbins, 37, and John Edward Oyer, 47.

Dobbins was a sports announcer for radio station WCOL in Columbus. He broadcast the Ohio State University-Illinois basketball game from Champaign, Ill., last night. Oyer was a real estate operator.

State police said Clark apparently was the pilot since he had a pilot's license in his pocket.

The cause of the crash was not known. Temperatures were near zero and a stiff wind was blowing.

Knightstown police said the plane was headed west when it crashed but they belived it was enroute to Ohio. A nearby farmer heard a big roar when it crashsd and notified police.

The plane started to burn just before the Knightstown fire department reached the scene but the blaze was extinguished quickly.

Police said the gas tank was empty but that it might have drained empty from a leak after the crash.

The three victims apparently were killed instantly. Their bodies were not burned.

PLEADS INNOCENT

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) — Roger Swigert, 20, of Louisville, Ohio, one of two Kenyon College students indicted in connection with the fatal shooting of Richard Weidner, 26, Dec. 4, pleaded innocent yesterday to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Swigert's trial will be delayed until disposal of the manslaughter case against Candido Marquez, 20, of Chicago. Marquez, who police say fired the fatal shot, is in critical condition at Chicago following a lung operation.

Righteousness Is Discussed By Evangelist

Enemies of righteousness compared with Goliath, the biblical giant slain by David, was the basis of the sermon by Rev. "Charlie" Taylor, evangelist, at the union Spiritual Victory Crusade service Monday night at Epworth Methodist Church. The meetings conducted by Rev. Charles F. Taylor and Rev. Laurie F. Taylor under sponsorship of the Marion County Ministerial Association, and will continue through Jan. 25.

"Never be afraid of the enemies of righteousness, just remember the bigger they are the harder they fall," the preacher said.

"True it is that the forces of evil make some boastful claims The majority is on their side, they say. Righteousness will never win But remember, Hitler came roaring like Goliath but eventually the sneered-at little people defeated him. Communism now roars like the bear she is, saying Communism will take over all the earth, and many people are afraid, but if our cause is right and God is one our side, we shall still defeat Communism.

"What is true internationally is true individually. What giant are you facing? Is it alcohol, immorality, dishonesty, selfishness? Whatever it is, if you will put your trust in God as David did, you will gain the victory, but you must lean on God, not on yourself," he concluded.

Rev. Laurie Taylor played a popular program of cowboy music on his nine-foot Steinway piano for the young people.

Tonight's subject will be "Ringing Doorbells at Midnight," and the evangelist will show his colored moving pictures of Zion, Bryce, and Yellowstone, national parks.

The Taylor Brothers will be heard on the radio over Station WMRN Wednesday and Thursday mornings for the 8:15 Morning Meditations. They took part in the broadcast Monday morning.

Friday Last Day To File For Acreage Allotments

Friday is the last day Marion County farmers can file applications for corn acreage allotments with the county office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, Frank Montgomery, county office manager, announced today.

Montgomery said the applications are required from farmers who want allotments but have not grown corn during the past three years. Farmers who have produced the crop during that period need not apply to receive acreage allotments.

The ASC committee is the old Production and Marketing Administration. Its offices in Marion County are located at 194 S. State St.

Touring

of surplus to discourage production.

Chairman Hope (R-Kan), a key figure in any future farm legislation, said only that "there are wide differences of opinion over this proposal," but he is known to favor continuation of rigid supports.

Attitude Clear

Most members declined to be quoted by name but left little doubt of their attitude.

Rep. McIntire (R-Me) summed it up when he said the administration's "long-term planning will have to square with short-term realities."

With an election coming up this fall, some Republicans contend that the present political and economic "climate" is not favorable for a sudden shift to a new price support system. They also remember 1948, when the 80th Congress compromised on price supports Democrats won.

There was no doubt where all or most committee Democrats stand on the President's proposal. "We don't favor a flexible system," declared Rep. Gathings (D-Ark), adding:

Will Need 90 Per Cent

"Farmers are going to need at least 90 per cent parity for basic commodities. So far as anyone I've talked to is concerned, the opinion is that Congress is going to continue rigid price supports."

After today's hearings, the committee will fly to Waco, Tex., tomorrow and to Memphis Thursday before returning to Washington.

Members said that although they have covered 16,000 miles in their coast-to-coast tour no committee member was consulted by the President's farm advisers on the drafting of the special message sent to Congress yesterday.

Farm

the war-born program of rigid price supports for basic crops.

Sen. Mundt Critical

Among the Republicans, Sen. Mundt of South Dakota, a Senate Agriculture Committee member, said he was dissatisfied with the flexible price support provisions urged by the President. He said:

"I do not believe the flexible price support provisions suggested in the President's message are a workable device for maintaining the present price leve's of 90 per cent for basic products."

Rep. Rayburn (D - Tex), the House minority leader, said bluntly, "I do not think Congress will give up the 90 per cent of parity for basic farm products."

Parity is a calculated price said by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay for needed items.

Sen. Sparkman's View

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) put it this way: "I don't believe Congress will approve any legislation that would produce a greater economic shock to the farmers, and undoubtedly that is what this program would do."

Eisenhower evidently avoided some Democratic opposition by recommending that the present high-level supports on tobacco be left intact, a proposal likely to be popular in Kentucky, where one of the major battles for a Senate seat is shaping up.

There were indications that wool growers in such states as Wyoming, Montana, Idaho and Colorado —where there are Senate battles this year—would be pleased with the President's proposal to make direct treasury payments to give them an average return of 90 per cent of parity.

other major divisons of city government for this year were as follows: airport, $12,150; parks, $13,000; veterans housing $8,280; garbage department, $103,500; and street repair and maintenance, $159,100.

City Auditor Elmer Shaw said while these the expected costs of operation of the city this year it is almost impossible to fix the actual cost of operation of all departments for 12 months in advance. This means it may be necessary to make additional appropriations for operation of various departments during the year, he said.

He pointed out that even with increased costs due to price and salary increases during the year the city still "operated well in the black" during 1953.

Shaw also presented a report to Council showing the actual increases in the divisions which are paid from the general fund.

Largest of these increases was to the police department, up $22,540 to $154,810 with $125,510 going for salaries.

Next highest increase was for operation of the new sewage treatment plant which was increased $20,650 to $52,540. City officials last Nov. 4 asked voters in the city to pass a special tax levy to raise money for increased cost of operation of the sewage plant. The voters turned the issue down.

Third largest increase was to the fire department which was increased $16,180 to $160,130 with $148,680 of this to be used for salaries.

Other Departments

Other departments and offices within the general fund receiving increases and the total appropriations were as follows:

Clerk of council, up $300 to $3,100.

Mayor, up $581 to $5,000.

Auditor, up $450 to $15,290.

Treasurer, up $200 to $1,750.

Solicitor, up $640 to $8,400.

Municipal Court, up $1,582 to $20,418.

Civil Service Commission, up $100 to $725.

Humane officer, up $120 to $1,080.

Health Department, up $900 to $11,310.

Health inspection, up $5,095 to $12,730. This large increase was made because of the need to create the new position of sanitarian to help enforce new state restaurant licensing law.

Engineering, up $420 to $14,880.

Street lights, up $1,000 to $26,000.

Hydrant rental, up $1,000 to $32,000.

Public Employes Retirement System, up $2,000 to $12,000.

Three departments took cuts totaling $13,000 for the coming year. They were: Safety-Service Department, down $360 to $18,280; public lands and buildings, down $640 to $14,400 and claims and transfers down $12,000 to $43,000.

Those divisions for which appropriations remained the same were: council, $6,005; legal advertising, $500; quarantine (in Health Department), $125; sidewalk (in Engineering Department) $3,700; and sewers (also in Engineering, $9,500.

another session which would only draw up the plans and set the date for the peace conference.

Labor

workers to determine whether they approve of a strike.

The President's proposal was couched in general terms and did not specify when such a secret ballot should be taken.

However, when Smith introduced implementing legislation, he proposed that such a vote be taken under National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) supervision after a strike had begun.

Under Smith's bill, a majority of all eligible workers—not just those voting—would have to approve the walkout. In cases where a walkout failed to get the required majority support, workers who failed to return to work could be fired.

Mitchell Surprised

This provision of Smith's bill apparently surprised the secretary of labor, who told newsmen he had read Smith's legislation earlier and had not understood that the poll was to be held after a strike began.

Murray termed this "a strike-breaking weapon." He called it "another attempt to try and show that union leaders don't have the backing of the membership." Some other senators said it would strengthen democracy in unions and help guarantee rank-and-file control.

Most of the Eisenhower proposals could be said to have had at least some support in past years from the late Sen. Taft of Ohio, former labor committee chairman and co-author of the Taft-Hartley law.

Controversial Point

Perhaps the outstanding exception was Eisenhower's proposal that boards of inquiry, set up by presidential appointment to study national emergency disputes, be empowered to make specific recommendations for settling these disputes.

This proposal appeared likely to encounter resistance, especially from the management side. Employer groups have always opposed giving such boards authority to recommend settlement terms.

The President also told Congress yesterday the law should be changed to "make clear that the several states and territories, when contronted with emergencies endangering the health or safety of their citizens, are not, through any conflict with the federal law, . . . deprived of the right to deal with such emergencies."

Two Southern Democrats—Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, and Sen. Russell (D-Ga)—hailed this "states rights" recommendation.

Labor union leaders who commented on the Eisenhower recommendations were uniformly critical.

In Los Angeles, President Harold C. McClellan of the National Assn. of Manufacturers said Eisenhower's labor message had clearly stated the need for specific Taft-Hartley amendments. He called the law sound, adding: "It needs only to be improved in specific instances."

"I intend to find out how, where, when and to whom the money was paid," O'Brien said.

sense would dictate granting the rest of the money."

Moorehead also said after the caucuses he would vote to release funds.

Highway Director S. O. Linzell asked the board last summer for $650,000 to make a complete survey of a Cincinnati-Conneaut route Without withdrawing the request, he indicated a feasibility study could be made for $90,000. An extra $45,000 would be needed to survey a turnpike spur from off that route toward Toledo, he said.

The complete engineering surveys needed for construction would cost an additional $840,000, McClure reported. That, he said, would run the expense of a complete survey, including a Toledo spur, to $975,000.

Around Council's Table

Marion City Council approved six routine pieces of legislation, sent another back to committee and discussed routine business at its meeting held last night at city hall.

Parking Ban Discussed

Considerable discussion was given the 3 to [illegible] p.m. daily parking ban on Church St. after Councilman Harold Fralich, Sixth Ward, brought it before Council.

Fralich asked whether or not a recently-adopted ordinance authorizing the impounding of automobiles parked illegally was in force or not.

Safety-Service Director Ralph Forrest said it is, but added in answer to a question by Fralich that police had not impounded cars illegally parked on Church St. because there was still no place to store them. The only bidder for storage of such cars, Short-Ford, Inc., has been unable to sign a contract with the city because of an insurance problem, Forrest said.

Fralich reported that he gets calls at least once a week from various persons who say the city administration and Council is being laughed at for failure to enforce the parking ban.

Councilman Richard E. Lister, at-large, suggested that one cure might be to invoke a progressive fine for those who park illegally with the minimum fine at $5 and the maximum at $50.

First Ward Councilman Harold Smith objected to this plan and said he could not vote for it. He indicated he would rather take parking off the south side of the street at all times for six days a week rather than increase the fines to enforce the present three-hour ban.

Fifth Ward Councilman Don Quaintance suggested that it would be best if a plan were devised by some commission, such as the traffic commission for all such changes in traffic patterns in the city.

Council President William Slack cut off discussion a few minutes later and ordered the streets and alleys committee to make a complete study of the situation and bring in proper legislation to change the ban if they desire at the next Council meeting.

Okay Cleaning Service

An ordinance granting a franchise to William D. Noggle of 454 Bellefontaine Ave. for operation of a sidewalk cleaning service was approved after a short discussion.

The discussion came after Noggle objected to a clause in the ordinance requiring him to post a $10,000 bond for protection of the city in case it is sued as an indirect result of the service causing injury to anyone.

Noggle said he thought a required insurance policy would provide that protection. City Solicitor George A. Piacentino said it would provide protection only for Noggle and that a bond must be posted to protect the city. After more discussion, Noggle agreed to accept the franchise providing he can obtain the required bond.

Noggle proposes to vacuum clean sidewalks in front of downtown stores at a cost of one and one-half cents a square foot a month to the storeowners. He claims his service will help keep the downtown area clean and will provide greater sanitation of sidewalks.

Improvements Approved

Two resolutions directing the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for pavement, curbs, and gutters and storm water and sanitary sewers on S. Seffner Ave. from Indiana Ave. to Mt. Vernon Ave. were passed unanimously. One was for the curb, gutters, and pavement, the other for the sewers. Herman Rinehart, chairman of the sewer committee, reported petitions for the improvements were signed by more than 60 per cent of property owners on the street and City Engineer Thomas Cathers approved the plan.

A similar resolution calling for plans and specifications for a sanitary and stormwater sewer on Bryant St. from Fairview St. north to Hecker Ave. was sent back to the sewer committee for more study.

Engineer Cathers reported that it is not possible to install this sewer because the ground slopes off toward the north and the sewer must drain to the south. Greatest distance the sewer could be installed north of Fairview would be between 300 and 400 feet, he said. Another suggested plan was to place the sewers in an alley east of Bryant St, which is higher than the street, and to install a second such sewer in another alley west of the street to provide service to residents on both sides of the street.

Other Legislation

Other legislation passed was a resolution confirming appointments of Robert E. White, Michael O'Brien, Russell C. Snare, Ray Geer, and John J. Stafford to the Board of Trustees for General Hospital; another for the appointment of Dr. Frederick T. Merchant to the City Board of Health for five years; and another to pay a $77 claim to the Reliable Plumbing and Heating Co. for damages to its truck involved in a traffic accident with a city garbage truck on Dec. 19.

Pay Raise Asked

First reading was given to an ordinance requested by Mayor Harold F. Robinson to raise the salary of Deputy City Auditor Floyd Schaffner from $332.50 a month to $375 a month. Mayor Robinson said he was thinking of the welfare of the city in asking Council to consider this raise. He said Schaffner has been doing good work in the auditor's office and deserves an increase.

Price Set on Land

A letter to Mayor Harold F. Robinson from Hugo C. Schwartz of the Public Housing Administration setting the price for the purchase by the city of 11.275 acres at the Veterans Housing Project was read.

Schwartz said the price for the land is $6,000 and Council President Slack directed that legislation be brought in at the next council meeting authorizing purchase at this price.

The price asked for this part of the project is nearly double the amount paid for 10.9 acres at the project less than a year ago by the city. On April 13, Council authorized expenditure of $3,276 for this land which included the housing units located on it. The land is desired by the city to provide for possible future expansion of Lincoln Park. No reason was given by Schwartz for the high price for the present acreage which contains no buildings.

Traffic Complaints

Fourth Ward Councilman Ralph Williams reported he had received several complaints about heavy traffic on Merchant Ave. He said residents claim trucks and other through traffic use Merchant Ave. to cut across from E. Center St. to Mt. Vernon Ave. This brought forth a suggestion that signs be placed on all state routes at the city limits warning trucks and other through traffic to remain on state routes in the city. No definite action was taken on this problem.

Report on Fees

A report of the amount of money collected at the mayor's office from issuance of building permits and other income was read by Mrs. Mayme Gorton, city clerk. She said $2,277 was collected from building permits, $337 from other licenses and $112 from sale of city code books for a total of $2,715 for the year.

Council President William Slack appointed Fralich and Richard E. Lister to serve on a committee to work with the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee for the next two years. He also read names of councilmen on various council committees. Membership of these committees was previously announced following the Jan. 1 swearing-in ceremony for city officials.

Councilmen absent were James Jenkins, Second Ward, and Robert G. Haldeman, at-large. Invocation was given by Rev. Norman D. Renn, pastor of Fite Memorial Baptist Church.

Church Speaker

REV. ROBERT SCHULTZ of Altoona, Pa., will be in Marion at Emmanuel Baptist Church Wednesday night as missionary speaker. A graduate of the Philadelphia Bible Institute in Pennsylvania, he was pastor of the Grace Bible Church at Tyrone, Pa., three and a half years. He has been accepted as a missionary candidate of the South Africa General Mission, an "Independent Faith Mission," and with Mrs. Schultz will sail for Africa in the near future.

Proposals on Each Farm Commodity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here is what President Eisenhower's farm program proposes as to each major commodity:

Wheat—Substitute flexible price supports—75 to 90 per cent of parity—for present rigid 90 per cent price supports after the 1954 crop. Production controls—including acreage allotments and marketing quotas—would be used as a supplementary measure to help keep supplies in line with market needs.

The modernized parity for wheat—which would be about 20 per cent lower than the present parity—would begin to go into effect Jan. 1, 1956. The reduction each year could be no greater than five percentage points of the old formula.

Corn — Substitute the flexible price supports for the current mandatory 90 per cent supports after the 1954 crop and shift to the modern parity on Jan. 1, 1956. This parity would be about 10 per cent lower than the present one, but the change would be limited to 5 percentage points a year.

Fruits and vegetables—Use present funds from customs receipts for purchase and removal of surpluses of these products from markets. Purchased supplies would go to school lunch programs and to the needy abroad. Also authorize broad use of marketing agreements to help stabilize prices of these commodities. Under such agreements, low quality products are kept off markets.

Potatoes—Use the same measures for potatoes as for fruits and vegetables. At present, potatoes are ineligible for price protection.

Dairy products—Continue present provisions of the law providing for price supports between 75 and 90 per cent of parity "as are necessary to assure an adequate supply."

Meat animals—Continue present programs, under which price supports are not required, but which permit the government to buy meat in times of depressed prices to help bolster prices. Such meat would be diverted to the school lunch program and to foreign aid programs.

Eggs—Continue present law providing for discretionary authority for the secretary of agriculture to support prices at not more than 90 per cent of parity and divert any eggs or poultry obtained under such operations to the school lunch program and other public institutions. At present there are no price support for poultry and eggs.

Feed grains other than corn—(oats, barley and grain sorghums). Continue provisions of the law authorizing discretionary price supports at not more than 90 per cent of parity. These commodities are now being supported under provisions of the law.

Cowboys' Feet Getting Bigger, Boot Agent Says

DENVER (AP) — Take it from a man who knows, cowboys' feet are getting bigger.

"Yes sir," says Theron Brooks, sales manager for one of the Southwest's oldest manufacturers of cowboy boots, "the cowboys of yesteryear didn't begin to fill the boots of the modern-day range rider."

Brooks said cowboys of the early 20th century rode their horses wherever they went and, as a consequence, their feet took an average 5½ size.

Today's cowpokes currently average a size 9½ boot.

Brooks represents the H.J. Justin & Son, Inc., boot firm of Fort Worth, Tex.

New Packards Go on Display Friday

Packard Motor Car company has added a new series of cars to its 1954 models which will be introduced in dealer showrooms Friday. The cars will be on display here at Smith Motor Sales, 131 N. Prospect St. The new series of cars is in the Clipper line, and expands the comapny's coverage of the medium price field with models ranging upward in price from $2,500. Pictured here is a Clipper Panama hardtop.

There is a new, more powerful engine in the over 200 horsepower class for Packard cars in the luxury field, and all models have advanced styling, comfort and performance features.

Packard's two lines of cars, Clippers and Packards, now bracket the price range from the lower medium price class to luxurious custom-built models. Both family sedans and sports-type cars are included.

Buyers will be offered a wide choice of engines; power arrangements especially designed for open road, mountain, rough terrain or city traffic driving; more than 40 selections of interior trim; and 23 exterior color combinations. The luxury line of Packards will include seven models, ranging from a new deluxe hardtop, the "Pacific", a convertible coupe, two family sedans, and an eight passenger executive sedan, to the top of the line custom built Caribbean sports car and a chauffeur-driven model priced up to $7,250.

Packard's medium priced Clippers, starting at $2,544, will be built in three series. The company has added a Super series at the top of the Clipper line, which includes the Panama, a hardtop new to the line, the Super Club Sedan and the Super four-door sedan. Other Clippers are in the DeLuxe and Special series. The DeLuxe series includes a four-door sedan, a club sedan, and the Sportster; a club sedan is designated as a Clipper Special.

The company will maintain accepted styling continuity with attractive exterior appearance changes in its 1954 Packards. In the Clippers, however, there are considerable styling advances, particularly in the strong new accent for the high, long rear fenders.

Leading mechanical innovation is the introduction of a new engine for its Packard line. Greatest capacity engine in any American passenger car, the new straight-eight has a horsepower rating of 212 and is in all models except the Cavalier sedan. The new engine has 359 cubic inches of piston displacement, and a compression ration of 8.7 to 1, the highest in the industry.

Ultramatic, Packard's automatic transmission, is standard equipment throughout the Packard line on all models except the Cavalier and the eight-passenger cars. Buyers may order standard transmission.

There will be four basic engines: a Clipper special, with 150 horsepower; Clipper DeLuxe, with 165 horsepower; the Cavalier engine, with 185 horsepower; and the Packard engine, 212 horsepower. The engines are designed to achieve at relatively low engine speeds. The company offers four different axle ratios, and as optional equipment, tubeless tires, and four-way power seats.

Also offered are power brakes, power steering, power windows, air conditioning, dual heaters with underseat outlets, and a selection of four different radios, which may be equipped with manual or electric antennas and front and rear seat speakers.

South Charleston Defies State Law, Won't Pay Mayor

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Little South Charleston—population 1,452—has challenged the state Legislature.

The Clark County village, one of the country's smallest communities with a charter form of government, last night decided to defy the new state law requiring villages to pay their mayors salaries instead of allowing them to keep court fees.

City Solicitor Robert G. Bayley ruled the Legislature has no legal right to change charter provisions.

The charter is sanctioned by the state Constitution—highest power in the state—he said. Therefore, according to Bayley, the charter of South Charleston is equal to the state Legislature.

Furthermore, he said, the charter prohibits putting the mayor on a salary, so even if South Charleston wanted to comply with the new law it couldn't.

Mayor C. S. Kitchen, who this month succeeded Robert Williams, says he will keep court fees but won't spend them until a final ruling is made.

Famed Natural History Couple Subject of Book

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP) — Cornell University Press has issued "The Comstocks of Cornell," the life of John Henry Comstock and Anna Botsford Comstock, two pioneers in the field of natural history.

The volume records the accomplishments of Mr. and Mrs. Comstock in helping develop the world's first nature-study department at Cornell. Editors of the book are Glenn W. Herrick, emeritus professor of entomology, and Ruby Green Smith, emeritus professor of home econmics.

CONNECTICUT SECURITY

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP) — Gov. John Lodge and other state officials scanned the statutes for a loophole in one of the state's oldest laws but couldn't find one. As a result, Lodge had to deny a French consular official permission to hunt in Connecticut. The state has two laws that prevent non-citizens from hunting. Both laws are based on the principal that firearms should be kept out of the hands of aliens as a security matter.

Taft-Hartley Proposals

Bigger Government Role Seen in Labor Relations

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and the government will be a lot deeper in labor-management relations if Congress approves his proposals for amending the Taft-Hartley labor relations act.

Two prime examples among the President's 14 proposals: a fact-finding board to make recommendations in a national emergency dispute; and a government - conducted vote in the case of any strike.

Under the law now, when the President finds the national welfare is threatened by a strike, he appoints a board to investigate and report back with the facts.

Eisenhower asked that this be changed so that such a board would make recommendations on what the settlement should be. Since the President handpicks the board, its recommendations become, in effect, his own.

Neither the company nor the union would have to accept the recommendations.

At present workers faced with a decision on a walkout can vote among themselves on whether they want to strike. Or they may leave it up to a selected group of their unioin officials.

Eisenhower urges more federal say on this. He said it should be written into law that the government must conduct a vote among the employes on whether they want a strike.

He didn't say, in his message to Congress, whether the vote should be taken before or after a strike started. He said: " . . . . Nothing so vitally affects the individual employe as the loss of his pay when he is called on strike." He didn't say " . . . called on to strike."

Almost at once Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, produced a bill calling for a vote after a strike had started.

There may have been confusion in the administration ranks on this. Secretary of Labor Mitchell told newsmen he thought Smith's bill was going to call for a vote before a strike.

Under a special World War II law—from 1943 to 1945—the government had to take a vote among workers before a strike could be called in a war plant or one connected wih the war.

Strike votes were taken among about 2,100 groups of employes. In about 1,860 cases the vote was to strike, although only a small percentage actually went out. About 300 voted against a strike.

Eisenhower also proposed that the mediation service should step into a labor dispute where an injunction had been granted; that the government find better safeguards for welfare funds; and that employers must take an anti-Communist oath, as union leaders now must do.

Those points would all require the government to have more say in union or company affairs or both.

No one could predict whether government control, both federal and state, would be increased as a result of Eisenhower's suggestion for a study to find a way to avoid conflicts of jurisdiction between the two. He urged clearing the way for states to handle what they consider statewide emergencies.

Union leaders and company managers may argue whether Eisenhower's proposed changes do more for one of them than the other. But the net effect seemed certain to be a bigger role for government in labor disputes.

MILK PRODUCERS MEET

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — W. E. Winn, president of the Pure Milk Assn. of Chicago, says the sooner the American dairy farmer adjusts his supply to demand, the better off he will be. He said government price supports are against the best long run interests of the dairy industry and asserted the problem of oversupply should be dealt with on the dairy farm by increased advertising or the sale of poor producing cows.

British Take 7 Jet Airliners Out of Service

'Comets' Grounded Pending Investigation Into Crash Off Italy

LONDON (AP)—The Pride of British commercial aviation, the Comet jetliner, was a grounding casualty today pending a "minute" investigation of Sunday's crash of the eight-mile - a - minute aircraft in which 35 persons died off Elba.

The government-owned British Overseas Airways Corp. took its seven Comets off commercial runs in Europe, Asia and Africa. The crash in the Mediterranean was the seventh involving a Comet since the aircraft went into regular service 15 months ago, and the third in 10 months with fatalities.

In all, 89 persons have died in the aircraft.

At Porto Azzurro, Elba, near the scene of the latest crash, British and Italian investigation commissions studied the possibility of raising the Comet wreckage from 40 feet of water to further their inquiry. Twenty bodies were believed trapped in the sunken wreckage. The other 15—from the 29 passengers and 6 crew—were recovered Sunday.

The dead included two American passengers.

Investigators still could give no explanation for the crash, which apparently resulted from a mysterious explosion in the air.

The recovered bodies rested in plain wooden coffins, blanketed with flowers from the sympathetic fisherfolk of Porto Azzurro. Relatives of the dead were due in Elba today and tonight to identify those recovered.

Two Legs To Stand On

It takes more than a quick look at President Eisenhower's proposals for modernizing the Labor-Management Act and easing the readjustment of agriculture to decide whether he has rung the bell.

The hardest political test he will have to pass is in these two matters.

He must convince the agricultural industry he understands why its members must receive a fair share of the national income.

He must convince management and labor—and the general public—that the lopsidedness of the laws rigged by the CIO, the AFL and the original New Dealers can be righted by the Labor-Management Act.

First, President Eisenhower must convince farmers, union workers, non-union workers, members of management and the general public that he is on the right track; that he understands their problems and is trying to solve them.

Then he must convince members of Congress, particularly members of his own party, that his ideas for legislation are sound. Otherwise, a chief executive becomes a prisoner of his political opposition — a man who proposes while a majority of Congress disposes of what he proposes. That was Harry Truman's trouble.

A quick look would make it appear that President Eisenhower has satisfied the first requirement. He has made it plain that the Labor-Management Act, if it is going to be amended, must be amended to make it fairer to all parties concerned. His proposed amendments give no comfort to union bosses who would prefer to get rid of all restrictions on their power.

He has made it plain to agricultural interest that he understands why they must have a fair share of the national income. Its members can ask no more than that; they know there is no panacea.

But they do require that the President must strive, in cooperation with his party, to keep agriculture from being squeezed dry of purchasing power through price pressue.

The Eisenhower administration is doing a first-rate job of handling its relations with working people in industry and agriculture — the two legs on which every successful administration must be able to stand firmly.

Locomotives Must Whistle

Future Diesel locomotives for the New York Central will have old-fashioned whistles instead of new-fashioned horns, according to a spokesman for the railroad.

There are two reasons:

The public wants locomotives that whistle, not honk.

The whistling locomotives were easier to hear than the honking ones which have been crowding the old-timers into scrap piles.

The public also wants church bells that peal out.

It wants auto horns that beep.

It wants sirens that scream, auto doors that go clunk when slammed, engines that purr, chewing gum that smacks, paper that rustles, breakfast food that crackles and rain on the roof that goes pitter-patter.

With due respect to the people who make Diesel locomotives, we've always thought they goofed when they switched to horns. The public expects locomotives to sound the way they always have—a plaintive wail that brings tears to the eyes of all victims of nostalgia.

Congratulations to the New York Central for conceding that in railroading the public cannot be damned with impunity.

Jan. 23—The End

On Jan. 23, barring last-minute changes, the prisoner-of-war issue in Korea will be settled once and for all with release of the anti-Communist prisoners.

This will wind up the Korean war. No peace conference is likely.

The Communists in North Korea have made angry threats about what they intend to do if the anti-Communist captives are turned loose. Gen. Taylor has made firm promises about what he will do if the threats are carried out. It will be a tense moment but probably not tense enough to start gunfire.

It also is important to take note of President certainty on both sides in Korea that gunfighting will not be resumed. The war will continue but in the milder form of war known as "competition."

It also is imhortant to take note of President Syngman Rhee's certainty that the Republic of South Korea was placed in a hopeless position when the gunfighting stopped while the Communists were on Korean soil.

His republic now is at the mercy of Red China, which has entrenched its troops and colonizers in the Korean peninsula, and secondary in importance to Japan, its ancient and its most despised eemy.

The grim truth is, as far as South Korea is concerned, that the United States is dedicated to the security of Japan, not to the security of South Korea except as it has bearing on the security of Japan.

Voting Criteria

By David Lawrence

Second Look at Proposal To Lower Age Limit

In President Eisenhower's "something - for - everybody" message to Congress, there's one proposal which certainly on second thought will not look as good to some people as it did at first. That's the recommendation for a constitutional amendment which will permit 18 year olds to vote.

Few people who read it probably realized that it meant the vote for 18-year-old girls as well as boys. If the controlling argument is that a boy 18 years old is not too young to fight for his country he ought to be considered old enough to vote, the reverse is also true — an 18-year-old girl would likewise be eligible for military service.

Women have never been drafted for war but many of them have volunteered in the last two wars.

It is obvious that many millions of young men could be used in the front lines and in the heavier duties of supply units if girls could be used for the clerical and desk jobs and even for the domestic service in the kitchens for which able-bodied men now are utilized.

The whole subject of voting age has not been thought through by those who for political or sentimental reasons want to lower the voting age to 18. What exactly should be the criterion for voting in a democracy? Is calendar age the only real basis for measurement? Or is it mental age?

Thus if girls are to vote it may well be argued that the voting age should be reduced to 16 because many experts say the girl of 16 is as matured if not more so than the boy of 18.

Judging from the letters on public affairs received by this correspondent there are many girls and boys aged 16 and even lower who seem to know more about what's happening to their country and the problems of the day than those who are far above the present voting age.

Former President Truman gave a hint on the latter point when he said that instead of reducing the voting age to 18, it might better be considered whether the voting age should be advanced to 24.

Many politicians will disagree with him but anybody who has studied the interest in campaigns taken by persons below 30 will discover that it doesn't begin to compare with the interest manifested by those above 30. Not that there aren't many in the lower age groups who don't take an interest in public affairs and reading above the issues. The proportion is much smaller as the age bracket moves down.

While on the subject of amending the Constitution to fix the proper voting age it might be worth while to consider adding a section on compulsory voting. Other countries such as Australia have adopted that practice.

It might be stipulated that anyone who other than because of illness or disability didn't vote might lose his vote for three successive elections.

Provisions have been made nowadays for absentee voting so that this is no longer an excuse when business or other urgent reasons for travel takes the citizen away from his home on election day.

But notwithstanding all this the proportion of citizens who vote as related to the total number of citizens over 21 now eligible to vote has been steadily going down in the last 50 years.

One reason advanced is that women do not vote in as big numbers as men and that this brings the total percentage down.

Whatever the reason the fact is that a little more than half of those eligible to vote do so in presidential elections and as for congressional and local elections the percentages are even smaller.

Reasons for not voting have never been accurately measured through some research has been done along that line. It would seem logical that many persons who do not vote frankly do not know what the shouting is all about and have never related public questions directly to their own lives.

Others are well aware of the meaning of the issues but see little choice between present day parties or candidates and hence do not bother to vote — they don't think it makes much difference anyhow.

By adding several more million eligible voters in the teen-age brackets the percentage of those who go to the polls probably would go down still further.

In answer to this it might be argued that a substantial amount of intelligence would nevertheless be added to the total judgment of the electorate — and that is always worth while.

People Will Be People

By TRUMAN TWILL

All I know for sure about economic conditions is that no one knows anything for sure about economic conditions and anyone who says to the contrary is foolish.

The whole thing is as uncertain and tricky as what happens when a mess of people get crowded into a space too small for them. A few days ago in Japan, people panicked and trampled scores of helpless victims to death, injuring hundreds of others.

On some other occasion they might have been as well behaved as judges in a robing room. You never can tell.

People determine these things, not prohets.

Statisticians to the contrary notwithstanding, there is nothing concrete about the causes of business fluctuations. In World War II the wildest fluctuations occurred when lint-heads went berserk in anticipation of things which never happened, such as a total disappearance of coffee.

Throughout history, human beings have been as unpredictable as Mexican jumping beans. They have gone wild over speculations with nothing behind them but fevered imaginatin. They have turned cold on solid setups as good as money in a government-guaranteed bank.

They have been sitting ducks for sharpshooters who knew how to draw a bead on them. They have been milled around like chickens and sheep by skunks and wolves who knew how to employ "diversionary tactics," as they say in war and politics.

All the words being used to persuade people that this, that or the other thing is in the bag on somebody's say-so are words, nothing more. Nobody knows.

It all depends on whether or not the people decide to walk or run to the nearest exit — whether or not they have enough confidence to stifle the impulse to go into a panic.

The impulse is never far below the operational level of mass consciousness. It can be brought to the surface in a jiffy by one scream of 'Fire!" or "Mad dog!" or "The dam has burst!"

The trick in carrying on a civilization is not how to start a panic, which is a dark art carried on by unscrupulous practitioners, but how to keep panics from starting. It is no different from the trick of keeping soldiers from turning tail and running away when they go under fire.

In the dictatorial system, one fear offsets another. The soldier doesn't run because he will be shot by his own associates. In the responsibility system the soldier doesn't run because he has been encouraged to believe he must bear individual responsibility for a common cause.

The responsibility system is more of a hope sometimes than a reality. Even when it's made in America it doesn't always work. Some of its failures can be balmed on people who know how to make it fail. Others can be blamed on peole who aren't capable of bearing responsibility.

The men must be separated from the boys and the women from the girls occasionally. That may be about to happen again; it's impossible to be sure it won't happen. And if it does happen, no one can be sure how it will turn out.

If all the wordsmiths who have been beating out yards of predictions the last few weeks about the whichness of whatness and the rising and falling index of fumadiddle want to know how their stuff affected one innocent bystander, this is it, boys:

"Dah."

Fill the Prescription

A Difference in Manners

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

Richard L. Thomas of Marion is a Fulbright scholarship student at the Foreign Graduate School, University of Copenhagen. His experiences and observations will appear in this space from time to time.

COPENHAGEN

Many Danes consider Americans ill-mannered and most Americans hold the same opinion about the Danes. Is this simply a manifestation of national pride and prejudice?

No! The answer to this riddle is that manners are merely habits of society, and Danes and Americans have somewhat different habits and place different degrees of emphasis upon them.

American girls living in Copenhagen begrudgingly reconcile themselves to the fact that doors simply are not going to be opened for them, nor are the softest chairs always theirs by default. On the contrary, doors are slammed in their faces at the university as well as in stores and offices, and even in the most proper company, should they desire a comfortable chair or a tender piece of meat, they must be shrewd and quick in order to outmaneuver their male adversaries.

AS YOU HAVE guessed by now, Danish men go under the realistic assumption that modern women are strong enough to take care of themselves (they have to be in order to smoke the Danish cigars), and that they should not be afforded a favored status merely because of their femininity.

Possibly as a result of this survival of the fittest theory, Danish women are most formidable in crowded stores and streets. They pull no punches in pushing to the front of a line or in battling their way into jammed streetcars, or in sideswiping a fellow cyclist when occasion demands. It's a shame there isn't a better way to harness all this energy. With a little practice, the Danish girls, in spite of their misleading dainty attractiveness, could certainly use their litheness and strength more enjoyable on soccer fields than in business districts.

Offsetting these brusque and cold characteristics, however, are other mannerisms in which the Danes greatly outdo the Americans in politeness. One such example is the use of the word "tak" (tack), the Danish equivalent of thank you.

IT SEEMS that "tak" is used in almost every other sentence. In buying an article at a store, the clerk will say "tak" when you place your order, she will repeat when you give her the money, she will say "tak for det" (thanks for the purchase) when she gives you the change, and will say "farvel tak" when you leave. In order to express great thanks, "tak" is often enlarged to "tak skal De har" (thanks shall you have).

"Tak" is also used profusely when visiting a Danish home. When entering the house, one must immediately say "tak for indbydelse," or thank you for the invitation. As soon as the meal is over, the proper comment is "tak for mad" or thank you for the food. After coffee has been served, the key phrase is "tak for kaffee." When leaving, the final remark must be "tak for aften" or thank you for the evening. But this is not all. The next time you encounter your hostess, whether on the street or anyplace, you must say "tak for sidst" or thank you for the last time we were together. If you do not see her personally for a few days, then a telephone call is in order to convey the magic words.

AN AMUSING story circulating among American students here is that of a bulletin board in one of the local boarding houses. Every afternoon the landlady places a slip of paper on the wall so that each boarder may indicate what time he wishes to be awakened. The paper usually has an appearance somewhat like the following:

Room 12	7:30 Tak!
Room 14	6:45 Tak!
Room 16	8:00 Tak!
Room 18	7:15 Tak! etc.

Another cardinal rule is that when one visits Danes for a meal for the first time, he must take either flowers or candy to the hostess, preferably flowers. This can be quite embarrassing to Americans with poor memories, especially when five or six people are invited and all bring a bouquet except one.

Another practice unique to the Danes is that of "skaaling," which is similar to toasting. "Skaaling" is a sacred institution here and is carried out as follows. A member of the dinner company, most frequently the host, says "skaal" either to one person, the whole group, or parts thereof. Those receiving the "skaal" then raise their glasses with the one who originated the gesture, and while looking straight into each other's eyes, all take a healthy draught of whatever is being consumed.

AFTER THIS, the glasses are again raised and then solemnly lowered in unison to the table. A spirited host will often propose five or six "skaals" in one evening. The word actually means good health, good cheer, happiness, and all other good things rolled into one. Indeed, next to "tak", "skaal" is surely the most frequently used word in Denmark.

So we see that the Danes, by our standards, can be extremely rude in some cases and exceedingly polite in others. The problem of the American visitng here is to get accustomed to the emphasis upon manners, while hoping that he will not be completely out of line when returning to the States.

By MARK DANA

As the more ardent camera fans well know, it was just 115 years ago this month that a New York professor, John William Draper, made the first photograph of a face, utilizing principles evolved by a lively French artist, Louis J. M. Daguerre, and subsequently improved with the connivance of another well - known gentleman, Samuel F. B. Morse.

Any corner drug store or camera store will confirm that the solemn scientific experiments made by these men and the Frenchman Nicephore for improving medical studies have become big business. Human faces may not have gained in appearance, but the techniques of putting the likeness of a face onto an emulsion-coated piece of paper have grown in quality as they have in quantity.

Prof. Draper stuck to his medical studies and had little more to do with photography. Morse, a bit more ingenious, kept on tinkering and in 1810 made the first group picture—of his Yale classmates at their 30th reunion—but got sidetracked and wound up by inventing the telegraph.

Anybody wanting to debate whether the camera or the telegraph has provided more benefits may take it from here on. One might mention, too, William Tecumseh Sherman, a crony of Morse in dabbling (along with Brady) in 1861-65 wartime picture making. Sherman, remembered now for military reasons, had a good chance to stay on the fast-zooming photographic band-wagon, but apparently he saw no future in the little black box.

Nowadays, schoolboys can talk glibly about focal planes, apertures, stops, hardeners, composition, cropping and over-development—sometimes to the bewilderment of papas who don't know a vignette from a lens barrel.

In fact, one might remind once again (until it fully sinks in) that young folks today have three or four other advantages over youngsters 115 years ago. Maybe even seven or eight advantages.

Daily Bible Thought

"Ho every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money come ye buy and eat."—Isa. 55:1. The Bible is full of the teaching that the poor must be served, yet men are expected to do their best. Our father has infinite treasures and they must be shared by all his children.

1954 Business Interview

We have followed our custom of an annual interview with The Man Who Built a Better Mousetrap in order to gain his views on what is ahead for business in 1954. He scoffs at the prophecies of a slump. "There are just as many mice as ever. All the mousetrap makers have to do is to get out and hustle," he declared. "How is the pathway to the door as the new year gets under way?" we asked.

It was beaten to a new high in 1953, and I do not look for more than a five per cent drop in path-beating this year," he replied firmly. "The politicians will be disappointed if there is no depression, and some Democrats are talking as if they hoped the country would run out of mice."

"Suppose a mouse shortage should develop?" we asked.

"It would present no serious problem. I would just turn out a trap with one less hole."

"Thousands of economists just held a meeting and the concensus seemed to be that some sort of recession was ahead," we said.

"Some of them are Democrats. They all claim there will never be a proper balance between the mouse supply and the trap supply unless they are in power."

"Did you see what Leon Keysering said?"

"Leon, I think, is for more spending. He wants the government to step in and buy more mice, and supplement this through a big appropriation to buy mousetraps, thus stimulating both the mice and the people trapping them."

—:—

We asked The Man Who Built a Better Mousetrap if he saw any need of the government providing cushions in case of a slump. "You know what mice do if they get into cushions," he said.

"Do you think the mousetrap supply has caught up with the demand?" we asked.

"With all those new homes being built there will be more and more mice and more and more people beating paths to the door of a better mousetrap builder," he said.

"Is it your opinion that your business is cyclical?"

"No. There may be one year when mice are smarter and harder to trap than another year, but cycles have nothing to do with it. It all depends on the cheese."

"What about salesmanship?"

"That's the key to everything," he snapped. "People have been beating paths to my door in such numbers that my salesmen have lost initiative. We had had an era of prosperity when people seeking a new mousetrap had to get on a waiting list. From now on the salesmen will have to go after business. I am ordering them to Beat a path to customers' doors!"

Parents Reluctant

Dealing With Children Requires Time

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"Anything you do for kids takes lots of time. And while we are willing to give them everything else, that is the one thing we are reluctant to give them—time.

"And that is probably why we have too much juvenile delinquency."

I think that remark pretty well sums up the problem of dealing with children. I wish it were my observation, but it isn't.

It belongs to Frank Blair, who discovered the truth of it by living. Frank, who was a transport pilot in the last war, has seven children and makes more money than a successful counterfeiter — except Frank makes his honestly. He is newscaster of the NBC-TV network show called "Today."

But having and loving seven children—and earning them a good living—Frank found wasn't quite enough. Too much of the burden fell on his pretty wife, Lillian.

"With my odd working hours," he said, "I couldn't spend the time with my kids that I felt a dad should."

But Frank, who at 38 looks like a handsome older brother of his children, found the answer—in a family corporation in which each member has a voice in the family decisions. Here's how it came about:

"Lil and I discovered the kids liked to have bull sessions to discus where they'd got out of line and done wrong or to talk over family projects. We found they didn't mind being punished if they had a voice in deciding whether the punishment fitted the crime.

"At their own suggestion we started having these 'let's talk it over sessions,' and they developed into mock trials, and Lil and I found ourselves on trial, too, sometimes. We found out what the kids thought we were doing wrong, particularly after one of the kids got the idea of keeping minutes of the meetings."

Then Frank decided to create a family corporation to rule on all family questions with each member being allowed one vote for each year of his age.

The current voting status is as follows: Frank, 38; Lil, 37; young Frank, 17, John, 15, Tom, 13; Mary, 7, Theresa 4; Paul, 2; Bill, 1.

Currently the senior partners are able to outvote the junior members of the Blair corporation 75 to 59 in a showdown, but Frank says it doesn't often come to that.

"The kids don't vote as a bloc against us," he said. "The first thing we found out is that they won't take advantage of a situation if you give them a sense of participation. That is the wonderful thing about children—their real sense of honesty and fairmindedness."

The family corporation meets every Sunday, and no outsiders are allowed. The members vote fines and penalties and punishments, decide questions like what type of new car to buy and where to spend vacations.

The kids have routine chores they are expected to perform, but are paid for extra duties such as baby sitting. Each member of the family pays a penny a week for each year of his age, and the pot is divided among the kids just before Christmas each year, including as a bonus the money chipped in by dad and mom. Lil acts as treasurer by popular demand.

"I don't know whether it would work with every family," said Frank. "But this corporation game has helped bring us closer together, and we all have learned a great deal from it.

"It has given us a real insight into our children's minds, really opened a new world to us. You can't push your kids out the front door, tell them to come back in three hours, and then forget them. That is how they get into trouble. You have to find a way to give them something to do—and a feeling of responsibility."

When I asked Frank whether the Blair corporation had closed its membership rolls, he laughed and said:

"Well, you never can tell. I haven't been home since breakfast. I don't know what's out there now."

Clark Doubts Hostilities Will Resume in Korea

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gen. Mark Clark, here to serve as official host for a movie premiere, said he doesn't think hostilities will be resumed in Korea.

The enemy, he observed yesterday at a press conference, is now sufficiently impressed by American force of arms and convinced that this country is not bluffing about its foreign policy.

Clark will attend the first public showing here tonight of "Cease Fire," filmed in Korea with GIs as the actors.

The weeping singer and his wife, who separated a year ago, have agreed on a financial settlement and she will obtain the decree, her father told newsmen. She will leave tomorrow for El Paso, where she will meet Ray. The case will come before a judge in Chihuahua.

Husband's Plant Picketed by Wife, Son in Wage Fight

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"He's going to be sore before it's over."

This was the opinion voiced yesterday by Mrs. George V. Harrison as she and her 19-year-old son picketed her husband's venetian blind factory in a wage dispute.

Mrs. Harrison and George Jr. astounded labor officials by asking for membersip in Local 795, AFL Carpenters Union. They say it's no joke.

The son said his father had refused to increase his pay of 75 cents an hour and noted he plans to get married in May. Mrs. Harrison said she had received no pay at all for assembly and cutting work.

Asked what her husband's attitude was, Mrs. Harrison replied: "He was just as sweet as can be. Didn't say a word. He's going to be sore before it's over."

Cleveland Juror Places Duty First

CLEVELAND (AP) — A four-day trial of two men on grand larceny charges was nearing a close when a juror learned his son had been killed in a Nebraska airplane crash.

If the juror were released from further duty, as Common Pleas Judge Earl R. Hoover offered yesterday, it would mean a mistrial. The case would have to be tried again.

Andrew Andrews, 47, a juror, decided to remain. "I would like to leave for Nebraska now, but . . . I want to do my duty to my community," he explained.

Five hours later the jury completed its work, acquitting one man and convicting another of stealing coiled wire.

"An act of heroism," Judge Hoover said of Andrews' decision.

Action Filed at Bucyrus Against Gas Company

BUCYRUS — A second action to prevent curtailment of gas heating service to a home here has been filed in Crawford County Common Pleas Court here against the Ohio Fuel Gas Co.

Plaintiffs in the act n are James W. and Cleo Rank, owners of a residence at the east edge of Bucyrus. The Ranks ask the court to issue an injunction preventing the firm from discontinuing service to their home. The Ranks claim that they purchased the residence from Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Galitza, who built it last summer. The Galitzas asserted the gas company agreed to furnish gas for heating in the home, according to the plaintiff's petition.

The plaintiffs' petition states that they were notified Jan. 4 that gas service would be discontinued. They claim that they purchased the residence with the understanding that gas heat would be available and the conversion to another type of heating system would cost $1,100.

Concert Pianists Present Classical, Popular Tunes

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Virginia Morley and Livingston Gearhart, husband and wife piano duo team last night gave a Marion audience an evening of music ranging from Bach to "Boogie" and Bach again, with compositions by Saint-Saens, Chopin, and other well-known favorites for good measure. The concert was presented in the Harding High School auditorium.

In addition to a program that had style, spirit and musicianship, the evening was made more enjoyable by the informal commentaries of the artists preceding their numbers. The youth and charm of the couple added sparkle to their recital and color to the setting was provided in the costume of Miss Morley, a blue, sequin bedeeked ballerina costume worn over a cerise petticoat. With it she wore red slippers.

THE CONCERT MARKED the first event of its kind to be held in the new high school auditorium, and occupying the 1,200 chairs was a capacity audience.

A Bach composition, the choral prelude, "In Thee is Joy," opened the first half of the program. This was followed by variations on a theme of Beethoven by Saint-Saens, a Chopin number, "Nocturne-Fantaisie" from Opus 21, and a group of three numbers including "Can-Can," by Offenbach, Revel's rhythmic "Piece en forme de Habanera" and Gershwin's "Finale," from "Concerto in F."

Included in the last half of the program was the always welcome Arensky "Valse" and the audience was treated to Mr. Gearhart's arrangement of the Liszt "Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 2." Other numbers were "Duettino Concertante," Mozart-Busoni, and "Sailor's Dance," Gliere and arranged by Gearhart.

BROUGHT BACK TO the stage for many bows the artists generously added several encores including their own arrangement of Jerome Kern's "All the Things You Are," and "Three Blind Mice," and Gershwin's "I Got Rhythm."

Following the concert Mr. and Mrs. Odell Thompson of 955 Leetonia Rd. opened their home to the board of directors of the Marion Community Concert Association who entertained at an informal gathering to meet the artists. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Richard Mills and Mrs. Lewis Wills, social chairmen. Receiving the guests were Mrs. A. G. Birch and Miss Elizabeth Johnson, members of the board. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Mills, and assisting was Mrs. LeRoy Schneider.

Ushering at the school were Miss Joan Neidhart, Miss Evelyn Price, Miss Lennae Gonzales and Miss Carolyn Jones.

THE PIANO DUO TEAM left today for Royal Oak, Mich. after visiting places of interest here. Their itinerary for two months include 30 concerts. Time out from their very full winter and summer schedules are spent at their home at Shawnee-on-Delaware in eastern Pennsylvania with their seven-year old son, and enjoying their hobbies which for Gearhart includes ceramics and for Miss Morley, sewing.

The program Monday evening was the second in the 1953-54 series sponsored by the Marion Community Concert Association.

The next concert will be Feb. 16 at which time the artist will be Barbara Gibson, soprano, and on March 4 patrons will hear Szymon Goldberg, violinist. Both concerts will be presented in the school auditorium.

Patrolman Quits In Cleveland After Bribery Disclosed

CLEVELAND (AP) — The police prosecutor studied evidence today to determine whether criminal charges will be filed against a 38-year-old patrolman accused of accepting bribes for parking protection.

Patrolman Edward I. Gordon, a policeman for 13 years, resigned last night a few hours after Police Chief Frank W. Story said he caught him in the act of demanding and taking money from east-side merchants.

Chief Story, Inspector James E. McArthur and other police authorities rigged up a tape recorder in a television sales office and then concealed themselves in the store.

They said they heard Gordon ask five businessmen for money to permit parking violations and then receive marked bills.

Story said the patrolman for at least five months had been making weekly collections of $1 from businesmen in the E. 120th street—Superior avenue area.

Gordon, who was suspended immediately, made $4,332 annually. but lived in a $16,000 home and drove a 1953 Mercury.

After being confronted with the marked money, Story said, Gordon burst into tears and declared:

"It wasn't my idea. I was only doing favors for these fellows at their request. I didn't think I was doing anything wrong to accept gifts for helping them out."

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Plain Words

By George Sokolsky

I listened to the President's enormous speech, unrelieved by humor, as state papers usually are. It was not quite as stilted as a speech from the Throne is in England, when the king or queen, whichever it may be at the moment, reads what a prime minister hands up for the purpose.

SOKOLSKY

These state documents are really very important and all the chancelleries in Europe and Asia must read every word of the Eisenhower speech to determine how their own interests are affected.

The Kremlin must have noticed the tough accent on everything that related to Russia and Russian intercourse with the world. In former years, such a speech would have been tantamount to a declaration of war, but the world has become so accustomed to strong language that no country will any longer go to war over words.

MAYBE THAT is all to the good. Maybe it is a product of maturity or even senility.

The American Communists and their numerous protectors and defenders did not expect the "Wild Bill Hickok" stab in the front that they got from President Eisenhower.

Actually, the President was tougher than Joe McCarthy. He would deprive them of citizenship. He would, in effect, outlaw them, not as a party but as individuals. That seems to be an excellent idea because these fellows act as American citizens and claim the protection of the Constitution which they despise and which they seek, not only to violate, but to destroy.

We have in Ike Eisenhower a phenomenon heretofore non-existent in the presidency and should his administration prove to be successful for him and advantageous to the American people, it may do much to bring a new element into American political life.

HERE IS A MAN who consciously and by decision miffed all his opportunities in the first year of his administration and at the peak of his popularity. He admitted by word and deed that he was unfamiliar with the task he had undertaken and for which he had been chosen by the people.

After the glamorous Roosevelt and the omniscient Truman, this came as a shock even to Republicans. They wondered how long it would take Eisenhower to learn how to be a president of the United States.

Then they watched him appoint committees and commissions to work on all sorts of problems and they wondered what confusion would be brewed out of this mass-meeting of cooks.

Then his press-agents tried to "humanize" him. It was like getting publicity for an actress by bathing her in milk. The result was that the people got the impression of a golf-player rather than a hard-working executive. There is no crime in playing golf if you like it, although I always thought it was a device for staying away from church on Sunday.

After the businesslike, straight-to-the-point state of the union speech, the country is going to take a new look at Ike.

THIS WAS A CLEAR statement of fact, intent and purpose. It recited what can be done, what might be done, what cannot possibly be done this year. There were no apologies and no evidences of fear. The man actually has a program.

There will, I understand, be seven more messages to implement this speech. Congress has a clear program of legislation for debate and decision. There may be an advantage in the thumbnail briefing method, after all.

The Army has won wars that way; maybe, it will work in the presidency.

Eisenhower is not an orator and his speech-writers must be simple men who do not go in for the telling phrases that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Robert Sherwood, and Sam Rosenman revelled in.

-:-

EISENHOWER apparently likes the plain and simple statement unlarded by cleverness. He prefers to make himself understood rather than to amuse his listeners. He does not end with a peroration that lifts an audience out of their seats, only to wonder what the speaker said.

This state of the union speech was so simple in thought and phrase that it was possible to mark off the sections for reference without interfering wordage.

It is refreshing to have it that way in these days when all of us are so weary of so much talk about great affairs. Maybe, Eisenhower will return to us the simple life for which we all yearn.

Clean Unionists

By Victor Riesel

The Detroit Mafia did not, on its own, attempt to kill Walter Reuther—it got its orders to assassinate the fiery-tongued CIO chief directly from the top of the national crime combine, often spoken of as "The Syndicate."

RIESEL

The boys had nothing against Reuther personally, you understand. They saw in his new militant unionism a threat to their lucrative interlocking rackets which experts believe bring them almost two billion dollars a year in and around the nation's mammoth industrial plants.

Not the least of their income is the gambling take, on and off the tracks, and the systematized theft of auto and machine parts which matches the multi-million dollar "pilferage" on New York's waterfront.

THAT'S WHY they ordered Reuther's death in the year between the Auto Workers Union's 1946 convention in Atlantic City, when Reuther took only partial control of the huge CIO union, and the 1947 parley, at which he obviously was set to consolidate his power after defeating all opposition leaders.

That's why Walter, Victor and Roy Reuther, as well as auto union secretary Emil Mazey, have been urged by local and federal police to live under armed guard, behind steel blinds, with trained watchdogs and special floodlights on garages and house driveways. All this was repugnant to them, but the police knew that the mob was after their families as well.

Mazey, who even now is preparing to smash a multi-million dollar gambling racket in auto plants with a special educational program, hinted at this when he testified before the Kefauver committee.

"We are. . . opposed to interplant gambling because as long as it exists, there is always the possibility of corrupting the secondary leadership of our union, which can lead to the weakening of our union, destruction of its moral fibre, and deterioration of good relationships with management and public," Mazey said.

MAZEY WOULD be far less informed than we believe if he did not have in mind the tie-up, within the Mafia, of a handful of Detroit union officials controlled by the mobs.

The state and federal police have absolute evidence of such a tie. They believe that his small band, which is the bane of the AFL, is on intimate working terms with the Perrone mob, now charged with having attempted and conspired to kill Walter Reuther.

These authorities also know that the in-plant gambling mob is tied to the race track mob in Detroit, which, in turn, is linked with the eastern end of the Syndicate.

It was this eastern end which murdered the crusading Teamsters Union official, Johnny Acropolis, in New York's Westchester County and the corrupt Building Service Union leader, Tommy Lewis. Johnny was blasted because he wouldn't give in to the mobs in and around the Yonkers race track.

TOMMY LEWIS was murdered, investigators believe, because he was trying to move in on the mob's territory in and around the same race track.

Lewis made one silly mistake in an area where there is no margin for error. He thought he was tough enough to buck the mob for power because he was the grand croupier of a racket which brought him hundreds of thousands of dollars although he controlled a tiny union.

Typical of his tactics was the burning and raking up with tractors of golf courses belonging to country clubs which couldn't sign with him and be shaken down. After the expensive courses were ripped three or four times, they usually kicked in.

In addition special investigators put into this local union by the International Building Service Union chief, William McFetridge, have discovered that Lewis paid a gasoline station about $125,000 in cash for "automobile gas" alone—the union's cash, of course.

FOR THAT KIND of money he could have fueled a fleet of TWA luxury airliners around the world—several times. Of course he got a kickback. He had a hundred such angles in addition to his new notorious union welfare insurance business.

Then he got too big for his well-filled britches. He threatened the mob's race track control. So they had him depart this earth in a hurry.

There is one man in Detroit now who can tell this entire story—trace the Mafia-mob network from deep inside certain labor circles, which have fouled their nest, right through to the top of the crime syndicate.

That man's life has been threatened by anonymous phone calls to his wife. His name is Ray Carroll, formerly secretary-treasurer of a suspended Building Service Union local.

Recently he estimated the mobs' track gambling take alone at $1,250,000,000 a year. To protect this they have killed.

Only bad aim kept them from Reuther.

Freshman Senator

By Laura Hobson

Young, handsome, rich, and anything but a playboy — that's freshman Senator John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and it was good to have a talk with him.

HOBSON

Instead of jaded platitudes, his words are fresh and vigorous, and though it gets some people sore when any "top dog" type goes all out for underdogs, I'm not one of the sore ones.

You may remember pictures of his recent wedding to Jacqueline Le Bouvier, and think his good looks and charm beguiled me.

You'd be right, but what's really impressive is what this son of wealth stands for. His pet crusades include his fight to strengthen the economy of New England, and his constant interests are labor and foreign affairs.

HOWEVER you feel about those, I think you'll applaud Senator Kennedy when he says, "the way things are, American boys just do not have an equal chance to get into West Point or Annapolis."

"Our congressmen and senators," he explained, "can pick candidates any way they please. Political favoritism gets into it, 'the proper connections,' and other such things. That oldtime system ought to be changed, and soon."

It was after the West Point scandal that John F. Kennedy first published the results of a long, hard survey he'd begun in 1947, with his war service as a commander on PT boats not too far behind him.

"Apart from the unfairness of it," he told me, "the old system is a terrible waste of the taxpayer's money. It costs us about $6,000 per year per boy at West Point or Annapolis — and less than 50 per cent of the men who entered the Naval Academy between 1940 and 1943 still have their commissions. How do you like that?"

I DIDN'T like it. Nor the fact that 30 per cent of the graduates for the next four years resigned their commissions, and that 306 undergraduates have quit Annapolis and 380 have left West Point since the war.

This wholesale falling by the wayside springs from haphazard selection, the senator says, of boys not qualified by temperament or brains for the task ahead, boys who pay for expensive "cram schools" to get by the entrance exams, and then fail in the high voltage study of the regular courses.

His crusade would end such goings on. By radio and newspaper, he tries to inform all boys in his state that "open examinations" are to be held for the appointments he's entitled to make each year — and invites one and all to apply.

THE PROCESSING of the young hopefuls is stiff. After physical exams and special aptitude tests, each boy goes before a special screening board — a clergyman who was an Army combat chaplain, a Harvard psychologist, and an Army doctor.

A new type of "objective reference questionnaire" is sent out—not to loving relatives, but to former teachers and supervisors, who can rate the candidate realistically.

It's a careful, tight - meshed screening job, but once the misfits are sifted out, the boy who's really got what it takes wins the available appointment. Regardless of papa's connections or bank account.

In a democracy, that sounds good. Let's hope about 95 other senators and 435 congressmen will soon join up in young John Kennedy's crusade. Our future generals and admirals may be the better for it.

Witness Takes Stand Again in Perjury Trial

CINCINNATI (AP)—Roger E. Dunham, who has supplied information to the FBI on Communist activity in Dayton and Springfield, will testify again today for the government in the perjury trial of a Dayton resident.

Dunham testified yesterday in Federal District Court he knew E. Melvin Hupman as a Communist party member as late as 1953.

Hupman is on trial on a charge of swearing falsely he was not a Communist when he signed an affidavit under the Taft-Hartley labor law. The National Labor Relations Board said he signed such a statement Dec. 15, 1949, as a local officer of the Independent United Electrical Workers Union.

Dunham's testimony came sporadically between repeated objections by the defense attorney.

He said in the first part of 1950, Joe Brandt, whom he identified as a Communist party labor organizer in Cleveland, met with Hupman in Dayton. During the conversation, Brandt warned Hupman:

"Now that you've signed a Taft-Hartley affidavit, don't pay any more dues and don't attend any closed meetings. But continue to support and contribute to the party."

Hupman's subsequent actions, Dunham told Judge John H. Druffel, disturbed other party members who were working at the Frigidaire Co. plant in Dayton. They accused Hupman of avoiding them.

"We can't be seen talking to one another because the FBI is watching every move," Hupman was quoted as retorting.

Today was the fifth day of the current trial. A previous trial in Dayton ended when a jury could not agree.

District Chief Quits Liquor Post Over Allen Appointment

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The Dayton district chief for the Ohio liquor enforcement division resigned his post last night, declaring he refused "to serve under a Republican."

Hubert Lynch, 41, sent his badge to Gov. Frank J. Lausche in protest against the governor's appointment Saturday of Edward J. Allen as state liquor enforcement chief.

Allen was Youngstown police chief until a Democratic regime took over Jan. 1.

Lynch's action followed an angry demand by the Mahoning County Democratic organization for the Democratic governor to explain his selection of Allen.

Lausche later said he regretted the county group took exception to the appointment, but:

"I can only repeat that Mr. Allen is a law enforcement officer of extraordinary ability and unimpeachable honesty.

"His experience is extensive and efficient enough to insure to the maximum degree possible the cleanliness of the operations in the liquor industry."

Lynch is a resident of Cleveland and has been with the enforcement division as a district chief for more than five years, most of the time in the northeastern part of the state.

Avalanches Hit Austrian Alps, Toll Nears 100

Mountain Area Swept By Major Disaster, Snow Slides Continue

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—More than 100 persons are dead or missing in a major avalanche disaster in the Vorarlberg region of Austria, police at Bregenz reported today.

The toll was announced as other vast snowslides throughout central Europe's mountainland claimed at least 23 dead and 44 missing.

The avalanches roaring down the Alps severed communications and isolated hundreds of villages. Officials said it might be days before the full toll is known.

Police said more than 50 of the victims of the Vorarlberg disaster were missing in the village of Blons. Twenty three houses in the town, in the Great Walser Valley near the Swiss frontier, were covered by a huge series of snowslides yesterday.

The avalanches blocked the small Lutzbach River and many of the mising were feared drowned in the dammed-up waters.

The other 50 persons listed as dead or missing were from scattered villages in Vorarlberg province, police said. The reports indicated the sudden avalanches may add up to the nation's worst snow disaster. Only three years ago more than 124 people were buried alive in a similar catastrophe.

The threat appeared to be mounting throughout most of the mountain area. Rising temperatures were melting the snow, bringing the danger of fresh disasters.

The slides—ancient foes of Europe's hardy mountain folk—cut a wide swathe of death and destruction through tiny picture postcard villages in the Austrian Tyrol, the Bavarian Alps, northern Italy and Switzerland.

Thousands of foreign tourists and winter sports fans were isolated.

Worst hit by the fury of the snow slides, the result of the severest blizzards in several years, were western Austria and isolated mountain villages in Switzerland.

For them it was the highest toll since the disastrous winter of 51-52, when avalanches swept nearly 200 people to death.

In Austria 7 were known dead and 39 missing.

In Switzerland, the death toll rose to 14 known dead, with 5 people still feared buried.

In the Bavarian Alps area of Germany 2 people were killed.

Fresh avalanches early this morning killed 2 children and buried 17 people in Austria, where falls killed 5 yesterday.

At least 12 people were buried under the wreckage of the station at Dalaas, on the Arlberg Pass route, when a 600-foot-wide snowslide thundered down. Six others sleeping in compartments of a passenger train stalled nearby were dug out alive.

Five more were reported buried at Fuegenberg in the Ziller Valley.

Dr. Urey Raps Spy Probe at Ft. Monmouth

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP)—Dr. Harold C. Urey, atomic scientist and Nobel Prize winner, last night criticized the congressional probe of alleged espionage at Ft. Monmouth and said, "I don't believe the U.S.S.R. has a better agent in this country than Sen. McCarthy."

The scientist called such investigations "an irresponsible type of activity."

He said he had been told that the Ft. Monmouth investigation conducted by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) had "ruined morale" among scientific personnel at the Army radar and communications research center there. He expressed the fear that such developments might discourage young people from going into scientific work.

Urey made the remarks in reply to questions from an audience attending a lecture sponsored by the Schenectady Freedom Forum.

Wyandot Escapee Back in County Jail Following 'Recess'

UPPER SANDUSKY — Van A. Thompson, 32, former Upper Sanduskian who escaped from the Wyandot County jail here more than a year ago was back today.

Prosecutor Harold Roth said Thompson was apprehended by FBI agents in Cleveland, where he was working as a short order cook in a restaurant.

At the time of his escape from the jail here he was being held on three counts of theft and auto larceny, charged with stealing two autos and with breaking into a store room, used by a local contractor, and stealing tools later sold in Toledo.

Thompson made his escape from the jail, Dec. 8, 1952, by scraping and burrowing his way through a four-layer-thick brick wall with pipes taken from his cot as chisel and pry-bar. He had been apprehended in St. Joseph, Mo., on the three theft charges, and returned to Upper Sandusky by former Deputy Sheriff Karl Stansbery and Upper Sandusky Marshal C. A. Kirchener, prior to his escape.

Arrangements are being completed for his arraignment before Judge Russell H. Kear.

Resident of Lima Boarded Ill-Fated Comet 'by Chance'

PORTO AZZURRO, Elba, (AP)—The granddaughter of Harriet Beecher Stowe, American Civil War-time author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was listed today among the dead in Sunday's crash of a British Comet jetliner off this island.

It was not immediately known whether her body was among the 15 recovered from the sea between this island of Napoleon's exile and the Alexander Dumas isle of Monte Cristo, or whether it was among the 30 still missing.

The granddaughter was identified as Mrs. Dorothy Beecher Baker, of Lima, Ohio, listed on the passenger list of the ill-fated Comet as B. Baker.

Hugo Giachery, formerly of 10 Mitchell Pl., New York City, and now a resident of Rome, came here today to try to identify her body.

He was unable to make definite identification from among the 15 coffined corpses at the candle-lit chapel of the cemetery of San Cerbone, on the outskirts of this Elba fishing village.

He was given photographs, however, for closer study.

Mrs. Baker took the crashed Comet "only by chance," he told authorities. She had been in India, and wanted to get home as quickly as possible to continue a lecture tour. She had passage on another plane, but transferred to the Comet to reach America sooner.

Prexies Hit Shelby Here in Attempt To Snap Slump

Schnelker on Doubtful List For Non-League Encounter

Harding's basketeers play host to the Shelby Whippets tonight in a non - league encounter at the Prexy gym.

Coach Jim Lawler's Prexies will be out to snap a five-game losing streak. All five losses have been suffered after wins in the first four games of the campaign.

Best news out of the Harding camp today was the report that Ron Conroy may be snapping out of his recent slump. Lawler said Conroy, the team's leading scorer with 119 points, looked better in practice yesterday than at any time in recent weeks.

However, that news was tempered by the report Dave Schnelker, Prexy pivotman, may be missing. The lanky rebound artist was out of school yesterday. Lawler was unable to say whether he would be ready tonight.

With Schnelker out of the game, Max Kaelber will shoulder the pivot duties in tonight's game. The rest of Lawler's starting five will probably include Bob Hamor, Donnie Smith, Doug Bibler and Conroy or Joe Snouffer. Gene Armstrong and Phil Carroll will also see action.

Coach Charles Williams, a 10-year veteran at Shelby, brings a team which he describes as 'pretty fair shooters' in for the fray. Sparking the attack will be Wincel Ingram, a 5-7 guard which Prexy fans will remember from last year's battle at the Coliseum.

Ingram's running mate at the other guard will be Dick Reed, 5-8. At the pivot, Williams will use Nick Davies, 6-2, and forwards will be Roger Payne, 5-10, and Don Bucknam, 6-1. Eddie Davis, 5-9½, and Dick Cecil, 6-2, will be the No. 6 and 7 men.

The Whippets will carry a record of five wins against a pair of losses into the game. Wins have been over Norwalk, Mansfield Madison, Galion, by a 27-point margin, Willard, 82-42, and Crestline. Tiffin Calvert and Bucyrus have managed to whip the Whippets.

Williams reports his squad is averaging 65 points a game while the defense has given up an average of 55. He says his charges are 'not big and not tough' but refers to them as a 'pretty fair' shooting outfit. With a team which does little running, Williams fears the fast-breaking Prexies will take advantage of the big floor. He will use his usual defensive plan, a mixture of man to man and zone.

A reserve game will open the card at 7 p.m. Coach Al Beach and his reserve team will be meeting a future Whippet squad which holds a 6-1 record.

QUITS AT STEUBENVILLE

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Chuck Watt replaced James Brown today as coach of the College of Steubenville basketball team. Brown, who had coached at Camden, N. J., and at Haverford, Pa., College, came to Steubenville last year. He blamed poor health.

Marion Ready To Defend Grip On Third Place

CINCINNATI (AP) — The battling Barons of Marion, have slugged their way to third place in the International Hockey League and go after their fourth win in five starts tomorrow night.

In a weekend series with league-leading Cincinnati, the Barons were slapped for 36 minutes of penalties in 1 game and both teams were penalized 66 minutes in the other. Cincinnati downed Marion 5-1 at the Garden here and then lost to Marion 4-1 upstate.

The previous week, Marion had tangled with Toledo in a slugfest home-and-home series, resulting in the suspension of one player from both teams for the remainder of games between the squads.

But Marion's aggressive efforts paid off in two other victories last week.

Cincinnati played only 500 ball, losing 2 of 4 games. Second-place Toledo gained 1 point by its 2 victories and 1 tie. Bill Tibbs, Toledo goalie, shut out Troy 3-0. When Johnstown tallied in Toledo's next game, it marked the first goal against Tibbs in 117 minutes and 7 seconds.

The loss to Toledo dropped the Bruins to a fourth-place tie with Johnstown, which won 1 and lost 1, and Grand Rapids, which had one of its best weeks with 2 wins and a tie.

At the bottom of the league, Louisville beat Milwaukee after losing 3 straight; Fort Wayne was on the short end of 2 out of 3 and Milwaukee was decisively turned back in 4 encounters.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

A marked increase may be shown in the scores turned in at Marion's golf courses next summer. And it will be the result of a lot of attention and hard work in classes this winter.

SHORT

The Adult Education program at Harding High School will give present golfers and novices the chance to learn the finer points of the links game.

Actually the course, which is tentatively scheduled to get underway Jan. 19, is designed for beginners but nothing has been said barring those already playing the game. Emil Lisak, director of the program, announced the course would be open to men and women.

Mainly the course will deal with acquainting the novices with techniques of the game, etiquette on the course, proper stance and other finer points.

Plans call for the purchase of a net to allow indoor driving and also for obtaining facilities for an indoor putting green. Spokesmen for the program report the same equipment would be used by the Harding golf team which probably will operate next spring. John Luginbuhl of the Harding faculty will be in charge of the golf squad and probably will direct the adult course.

Lisak reports nine persons already have signed for the class but said a total of 12 would be needed for one class. Any persons interested in learning golf was asked to call 2-0235 for registration.

WILDLIFE REPORT. The Ohio Division of Wildlife in its year end report calls 1953 for the most part 'a good year.'

One highlight of the year, according to the report, was the acquisition of additional parking facilities for fishermen in the Delaware Dam area. The Delaware purchase, along with two others, makes available more than 4,000 acres of water for anglers throughout the state.

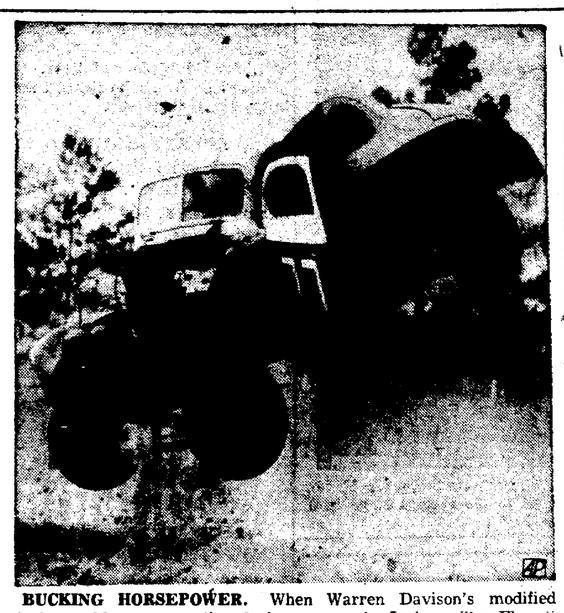
Initial purchase of area on the Kildeer plains in southern Wyandot County was another big feature of the past year. The Division reports the area was one of the most productive in the state for rabbit hunters.

Charles 3-1 Choice To Take Satterfield

CHICAGO (AP) — With pre-fight preparations complete, Ezzard Charles and Bob Satterfield rested today for their 10-round Chicago Stadium heavyweight match tomorrow night.

Charles, just off a knockout-victory over Coley Wallace, was a solid 3-1 favorite in the nationally-televised bout.

"I expect to weigh between 188 and 190 pounds," said the former heavyweight champion, who hopes an impressive victory will set him up for a shot at the current champion, Rocky Marciano.



BUCKING HORSEPOWER. When Warren Davison's modified stock car blew a rear tire during a race in Jacksonville, Fla., it bucked like a horse, jumped high into the air and ended up a total loss. Davison, of Jesup, Ga., came out of the accident without a scratch.

Palace League bowlers were led by C. Moore's 216-596. Five games of 200 or over were rolled there. Palace Recreation's 969-2816 paced the teams.

Emily Stephenson hit 174 - 511 while Wayne Huston and E. Owen each hit 216 games and Huston carded a 606 series in the Palace Mixed Doubles League. Team Eight at 645-1847 paced the teams.

Mather Seeking Post at Kansas

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Chuck Mahter, pilot of Massillon High School's Tigers, left for Lawrence, Kan., today for an interview on the football coaching vacancy at the University of Kansas.

Mather is to meet with the university's athletic board tonight. The job formerly was held by J. V. Sikes, who resigned under pressure.

The university's athletic director, A. L. Lonberg, phoned Mather last night and asked him to consider the coaching post. Mather previously had turned down a possible opportunity to become coach at the University of Toledo.

Since he came to Massillon in 1948 from Hamilton, Mather's teams have been picked as state champions in The Associated Press poll for six straight years. His Tigers have won 57 of 60 games in that period, and have triumphed in their last 23 games.

Marion AC Nips GI Post To Tie For First Place

Marion A C knocked off G I Post 55-51 last night to move into a tie with Green Camp Elevator at the top of the YMCA Industrial-Independent basketball league. Both have 4-0 records.

In other action, Ashley grabbed second place with a 57-42 victory over Raymond while McMillen nipped Alloy 46-40. Defending champion Green Camp and five other squads were idle.

Trailing the GI's 24-21 at the end of the first half, Marion AC took command in the third period and was never headed from then on. It was a rough game all the way with a total of 41 fouls called.

Bud England's 19 and Don West's 17 were the winners' top scoring performances. Jim Finnegan was high for the Post with 10.

Dick Howard poured in 20 to pace Ashley to its fourth win in five starts. The Merchants wasted little time, posting a 14-9 lead at the end of the first quarter and leading the rest of the way. Russell's 19 markers was the top scoring effort for the losing Raymond outfit.

McMillen had to overcome a first half deficit to notch its win over Alloy. Both teams hit for 18 field goals with the foul line providing the margin of victory—McMillen completed 10 charities and Alloy only four.

League action continues tomorrow with the Green Camp-Bird-McGinnis contest as the top attraction on the three-game card.

The Church League resumes action Saturday with a three-game slate starting at 7 p.m.

Duquesne Second

Kentucky Retained as No. 1 Cage Team in National Poll

By RIP WATSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Kentucky's powerful basketball team, voted top team in the nation in the Associated Press poll yesterday, wasted no time in living up to its high rating.

The Wildcats, winning the poll of sportswriters and broadcasters for the third week in succession, went out and trounced De Paul last night 81-63 for their tenth straight victory.

Duquesne, only 30 points behind Kentucky in second place, also confirmed its rating, trimming Cincinnati 80-60, and third-place Indiana came through with a 73-67 victory over Purdue.

The top three, running in that order for the third successive week, enjoyed comfortable margins over the rest of the field in the fifth poll of the season. Kentucky was first on 25 of the 90 ballots cast and piled up 734 points in the 10-9-8 etc. scoring system. Duquesne got only 17 first-place votes, but had plenty of seconds and thirds to wind up with 704, while Indiana totaled 671 and received nine No. 1 nominations.

The rankings were shaken only slightly all down the line, in fact. Oklahoma A&M was fourth and Western Kentucky fifth, just as they were a week ago. Holy Cross moved up one place to sixth and George Washington moved up to seventh from a tie for 12th before whipping Washington & Lee 84-53 for its 10th straight.

Oklahoma City swapped places with Duke, moving up to eighth while the Blue Devils dropped to ninth, and Minnesota fell from sixth to 10th after losing to Indiana Saturday night. Oregon State was the only team to fall from grace, plummeting from 10th to the also-ran list after splitting weekend games with Idaho.

The results (on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis) with first-place votes in parentheses:

1.	Kentucky (25)	734
2.	Duquesne (17)	704
3.	Indiana (9)	671
4.	Oklahoma A&M (8)	489
5.	Western Kentucky (5)	441
6.	Holy Cross (3)	262

Buckeyes Fall Before Illinois Quintet 90-76

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Ohio State's basketball Buckeyes will get a chance this weekend to determine just how much of a margin the home floor represents in their Western Conference campaign.

The Bucks play a return match with Illinois in Columbus Saturday night.

The Illini, 19th in The Associated Press poll, beat the Ohioans 90-76 last night, their fourth setback in 11 contests.

Illinois center John Kerr turned in his best scoring performance of his college career—38 points—and that spelled nemesis for the Bucks as well as their second defeat in three Big Ten games.

Kerr's output, highest in the nation among major teams, overshadowed creditable demonstrations by John Miller who had 22 and center Paul Ebert, who retained his stand among scoring leaders in the Western Conference with 21 points.

Sophomore guard Robin Freeman, the Cincinnati push shot artist, was held to 16 tallies, just half of his production Saturday night when he paced the Bucks to an easy conquest of Purdue.

Assistants Selected

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Jim McDonald, co-director of the annual Ohio high school North-South All-Star football game to be played in July has named Tom Watson of Urbana, Ben Wilson of Wellston and Bob Heffelfinger of Cadiz South assistant coaches. They will help Head Coach Bob Brownson of Portsmouth. Coaches to assist North Mentor Jimmy Robinson of Canton have not been announced.

Safety Talks Given To School Pupils

Boys and girls in four Marion schools were given programs on safety this week when Wayne Fernelius, a Detroit policeman and ventriloquist, with his dummy "Jerry McSafety" once again made appearances here.

Sponsored locally by Short-Ford Inc., Fernelius appeared Monday at St. Mary school and Mark Street School, and today gave performances at George Washington and Oakland Heights schools.

In addition to entertaining the children, Sgt. Fernelius with Jerry McSafety, gives an illustrated lecture, demonstrating with songs, stories and charts the practical, common-sense safety rules for children of every age. He dramatizes the need for careful observance of approved safety rules.

Cat Stranded in Tree Removed by Firemen

A cat which knew how to climb a tree but temporarily forgot how to reverse the process resulted in the only run by city firemen yesterday.

The cat was "saved" from his perch some 24 feet above ground after neighbors called firemen to 367 Girard Ave. at 12:15 p.m. Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt said firemen are called out to save cats perhaps a dozen times a year. Actually this is not necessary because "they will come down by themselves" if left alone long enough, he said.

Owner of the cat was not known, firemen reported.

8 Pairs of Ice Skates Stolen From Coliseum

Theft of $108 worth of ice skates from the Marion Veterans Memorial Coliseum at the County Fairgrounds was reported to police yesterday by Tony Hemmerling, general manager of the Marion Barons ice hockey club.

He said eight pairs of skates were taken sometime over the weekend between Friday and Monday. He reported the theft to police at 7:36 p.m. yesterday.

Apparently the skates were taken from a dressing room used by customers who use the rink for public skating, he said. A locker room where other skates were stored, was not forced open, he added.

Fire Destroys Family's Home At Sycamore

SYCAMORE — A rural Sycamore couple and their three children were forced from their home about 11:30 p.m. Monday when fire leveled the building and destroyed nearly all its contents.

The fire at the Clifford Scott home, three miles southeast of Sycamore, was discovered by Mrs. Scott when she awakened in the middle of the night to care for one of her three small children. She first noticed smoke and then heard the fire in one of the walls.

The only items saved from the burning two-story house, which is a landmark in the community, were a television set, a desk and a couple of chairs. Sycamore firemen worked about two and a half hours before the blaze was extinguished. No estimate has been made on the loss. It is believed that the fire was caused by a defective chimney flue.

The fire was confined to the house. A truck used by Mr. Scott for hauling was moved away from the building. Only clothing which the family was able to save was that which they wore.

The Scott family is staying temporarily at the home of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bordner.

The Scott home, an old log house and a landmark, was being extensively remodeled. The Scotts bought the house about two years ago.
